

Interested in obtaining teacher professional development on Positive Behavioral Supports in the Early Childhood?

At Pediatric Psychology Associates, we go out into the community to do professional development workshops for teachers and school administrators, based on the evidenced-based interventions for Universally Applied Interventions (UIA) for Classroom Success.

UIA follows the principles of attachment, play, and behavioral theories, providing caregivers and teachers with effective communication skills to grow children and students' positive relationships, and effectively use their attention to modify and support appropriate behavior at home and in the classroom.

The workshop provides participants with an overview of positive behavioral supports that can be promptly implemented in the classroom. The supports presented are founded in the evidence-based interventions of Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT), and its modified version for the early childhood classroom, Teacher-Child Interaction Training (TCIT).

Participants will also be afforded an opportunity to role-play these skills by interacting with each other to maximize their learning.

This workshop is presented by
PCIT Certified Within Agency
Trainer:

Dr. Raquel F. Concepcion.
